

Recognising God's voice and discerning what action we should take.....

Learning to recognise God's voice is not a skill that's acquired overnight because the Divine God/Dess speaks to us at different times, in different settings and in different ways.

- It requires you to mature spiritually. Jesus said His sheep follow Him because they know His voice. Notice, Jesus said that His 'sheep,' not His lambs, know His voice. Baby sheep just follow adult sheep until their senses are trained. Thank God there's grace for the immature.
- It requires guidance and confirmation from spiritual leadership who watch over our souls.
- It must not be limited to your previous experiences. God spoke to Moses on a mountain that shook, and to Elijah through a still small voice. Don't limit God; He/She will speak to you through the Scriptures, sacred writings, through those qualified to teach you God's word, through a song, through a painful situation, and even your own thoughts and desires when you're submitted to God. The key is to stay close to God and keep your receiver switched on.
- Above all else, it requires obedience. When it comes to hearing from God, how's your response time? When I get around to it?....I'll see if I can fit you in!...I'll think about it! Wrong! God speaks, and continues to speak, to those who obey, and continue to obey.

I sense that some may be challenged by the use of the word, 'obedience,' 'obey God,' or even 'submit to God.' The word 'God' can have a painful resonance for some especially those who have been traumatised by members of one of God's religious families.

From a historical perspective, we know that 'religion' has been at the heart of many of the world's discords. Over the centuries, there is sufficient well-documented evidence that literally questions the validity of the Scriptures today because of man's interference with the written word. Evidence from many eminent Scripture scholars confirm that certain religious leaders have tampered with God's word and what's more alarming is that certain 'Church Leaders/ Gurus' continue to abuse their authority as keepers of God's word, by leading many astray from a path of love to one of religious fundamentalism.

We have many recorded examples of how high-ranking officials from the Christian Church and other World Religions have said one thing and in private behaved inappropriately and irresponsibly before God. We have also discovered through research how the early Christian Fathers changed the sacred teachings of Jesus to accommodate their personal viewpoints, totally disregarding the role of the Divine Feminine as well as God's truth as revealed by Mary Magdalene and Sananda Jesus to name but a few examples. Anyone who dared to be different by speaking their truth or engaged in alternative lifestyles such as Wicca, etc, were tortured and burned at the stake. Joan of Arc comes to mind. The great Saint Theresa of Avilla in her writings created a real challenge for the male dominated Catholic Church of her day by engendering a more loving eclectic spirituality through her writings. Theresa was seen as a 'witch and rebel,' by the Inquisition Board and whose reputation was damaging the Church. When the members of the Inquisition Board approached Saint Theresa, she knew the games they were playing and that their agenda was to get rid of her despite knowing in their hearts that she like many others, had spoken their truth. So, Theresa decided to play them at their own game and instead of challenging their egos, she was led by the Spirit of God to say, 'what would a mere woman know about such things as these.' Here, Theresa was effectively massaging their religious egos of self-importance and was spared the gallows. The spiritual role of Theresa of Avilla is as meaningful today for those of us who are faced with 'Modernism, Pluralism, Hedonism, Narcissism, Religious Idolatry of ego. The new false God that cripples the minds and hearts of God's people is that what we call 'the God of Paper.' This God is selfish, destructible and totally disinterested in spiritual wellness and wholeness of its employees and members. The God of Paper is more about achieving targets to please those who have lost sight of the Divine and whose hearts are crying out for a modern day John the Baptist to liberate God's suffering people from all oppressive ideologies with a religious undercurrent. .

In 2008, there is shocking evidence that has come to light about crimes committed by the Catholic Church in the name of God. Because the religious leaders are afraid of the spiritual gifts that Shamans or Holy men possess, they have activated the ancient Inquisition Chambers of the Reformation by placing a bounty on the heads of all Shamans who practice their skills as healers in the South Americas. As a result, they have been forced to leave the town hamlets and villages and seek refuge high up in the mountains where they are spared torture and death. Yes, the same Inquisition Chambers that challenged Saint Theresa of Avilla and Joan of Arc are alive, well and kicking.

I believe that there is a distinction that needs to be made between the meaning and understanding of the words, religion and spirituality. Many would now accept that religion is for those of us who live in fear of 'Hell,' whereas, spirituality is for those of us who have come through Hell. Many enlightened Light Bringers are now invited by God to take up the gauntlet and fight for those who are oppressed by acts of intolerance regardless of where it comes from.

Daring to be different in the midst of such religious bigotry and hate, we as Light Bringers of Hope and Peace, are daily invited by our God/Dess, to reconnect in silence and stillness and hear that same small voice that Moses and Elijah experienced. Those who have embraced their inner heart, that place we now recognise as our Higher Self, is a place that knows only selfless, unconditional love and that in the eyes of God, all are equal, loved and accepted for who they are, regardless of their sexual orientation, religious upbringing or cultural differences. So why, the continued religious indifference and turmoil? What is the real cause of that hate towards one's spiritual brothers and sisters? Could it be that at the very heart of this one finds a 'fear based mentality' that feeds of itself and rather than face fear itself, one would rather go with the masses as not to be singled out as being different?

In a world where the emphasis is more about 'self serving' and chasing false ideologies that satisfy the ego rather than feed the spirit of God within, we who have made a determined effort to let go of all religious fear based mind-sets by embracing a more proactive spiritual pathway that is relevant for our personal spiritual life, cannot return to a place where religious oppression or it's intolerance are left unchallenged. Our inner truth guides us to speak our sacred truth based on God's core values of love not hate for everyone and in the process, we may well encounter opposition and rejection from our blood family as well as from our religious family for daring to speak out regarding 'religious intolerance and it's oppressiveness'.

Seekers of truth are perceived by Jesus and all of the Ascended Masters as 'special people' who have dared to step out from their comfort zones and radiate simplicity, integrity and truth in their daily lives. The challenge to forsake materialism, ego, selfishness, religious fundamentalism, lack of respect for the earth's resources, ignorance to the cries of poverty, suffering and injustice in our world challenges each one of us to speak out in the name of God to reconnect with the Divine.

Many soul seekers who have embraced an alternative path of spiritual enlightenment are those who have dared to 'manifest and accomplish their dream.' Such clarity is not as a result of academia but more to do with 'letting go' of mind-sets that no longer serve their highest good. This can evoke real trauma for the individual who opts out of mainstream religion and embraces their own spiritual path in search of a more simpler less restrictive, dogmatic belief system that corrodes the liberated soul.

As Light Bringers of Peace and Hope, we are invited to take seriously personal responsibility. Responsibility is like a two-sided coin. On one side is responsibility; on the other side are rewards. Too many of us are focussed on one side of the coin only-reward! Taking responsibility means three things:

- 1. Acknowledging what you are responsible for.
- 2. Acknowledging whom you are responsible to.
- 3. Acting responsibly at all times. All the excuses that we give ourselves, and others, won't let one off the hook. Jesus said, ' Much is required from those to whom much is given.'

In our search to quash intolerance whether it is, 'religious, political, freedom of speech, poverty, injustice, or whatever,' as Light Bringers we know on another level that having made the leap of faith back into the arms of the Divine God/Dess, we have immediately isolated ourselves from mainstream or society' values for our continued spiritual growth and sustainability as effective ambassadors of Love and Light.

Our spiritual advancement and knowledge provides us with a guaranteed spiritual protection when we remain in our heart-higher self at all times.

To maintain that activated radio frequency or wave of spiritual connection, we have to safeguard that place of 'Spiritual Beingness and Divine Oneness' with the Divine through daily meditation, prayer, silence and stillness so we can listen to that small voice speak God's words to our very souls. As Light Bringers, many have gone the extra mile by deepening their spiritual wisdom as mature soldiers in service with Sananda Jesus by preparing for the Dawn of Aquarius on 21st December 2012- the coming of the New Christ and His energies. Light Bringers are now saying that they live in the world but they are not of this world and because of this, they have created their very own spiritual 'cloisters without monastery walls' where they can survive on spiritual food for one's very survival.

Spiritual enlightenment remains at the heart of the Light Bringers survival kit. In every century, Mother Mary continues to invite many souls to join her in service to God by being willing participants in God's Divine Plan for the survival of mankind and the planet. Like some of the great Prophets, Moses, Elijah, Jesus and Mohammed, we as Light Bringers of Peace and Hope are now invited to set free all of God's children from their oppressors and celebrate their religious, sexual, cultural and personal differences without fear or judgement.

"Speak Lord, for your servant is listening today."

ABOUT SEAN

Sean is an intuitive spiritual life coach, healer, teacher and author of many books and produced a wide range of healing meditations benefiting anyone in need of relaxation. Formerly a nursing monk for 38 years, he is now recognised internationally not only as a Light Bringer of peace and reconciliation within the interfaith community but his form of 'Bradleyan Spirituality,' now encompasses many beliefs, including the teachings of the Johannine Essenes of Mount Carmel.

Guided by Lord Kutumi in 2006, Sean established the Tau Tree of Life Healing Community now supporting fellow Light Bringers requiring spiritual nourishment and fellowship across the world.

Like Sananda Jesus, Sean takes no prisoners in his work. His approach is very much heart centred whilst retaining a simplicity, directness that does empower his clients to reclaim their uniqueness as a child of Source.

Sean operates his consultancy from his home in the south lakes as well as leading directed spiritual retreats by the Red Sea, Sinai in Egypt. Today, Sean continues to live the life of a solitary Jesuessene monk based on the original teachings of Jesus, Saint John and Magdalene of Mount Carmel. Their rule of life was more about celebrating Divine Love and Light and discouraging negative mind-sets of fear, guilt and religious hate.

For more information about Sean's directed spiritual retreats in the South Lakes or by the Red Sea in Sinai, Egypt and the range of courses in Therapeutic Essenic Energy Medicine (underpinned by the teachings of Jesus, Magdalene, Mother Mary, the Four Spheres of Angelic Beings and the Johannine Essenes of Mount Carmel), please visit his website at: www.sean-bradley.com - www.taucommunity.com - www.angelgardens4u.co.uk Or telephone on: +0044-1524-762292
