An ancient “Soul Therapy” empowering Light Workers self heal before healing others.

Following the Harmonic convergence way back in 1998, many Therapists and soul seekers have been experiencing what can only best be described as the penultimate ‘Negativism’. Many of whom are now facing major crisis in their personal and professional lives leaving one feeling totally isolated, rejected, adrift and at the mercy of being influence by their head center-a center that is alien to a soul experience of liberation and joy. Anecdotal evidence would now confirm that there have indeed been many casualties as a direct result of light workers who have returned to their head center-their ego. The sense of apparent hopelessness whilst infectious and discouraging even the wisest and most grounded of experienced. All is not totally lost for the light worker who remains in their heart, their greatest teacher.

The universe is aware of the impact that collateral negativism is having not just on the landscape with devastating results as seen recently in the reported climate changes now affecting planet Earth but the negative impact upon the minds and hearts of the spiritually motivated light workers who are respectful of her presence. The energies of the universe and landscape are working in partnership with Source for our survival and it is only the fittest that is surviving against great odds. Mother Earth cordially invites us to return to an ancient philosophy that continues to withstand the tests of time.

When the various religious groups, including the early Christian Fathers eradicated the presence of the Divine Feminine from their ritual they immediately created imbalance, disharmony and a dichotomy with Source within their mind, body and spirit. Ancient civilizations like the Mayans, Aztecs, Celts and the Essenes all embraced the Divine Feminine as a matter of routine in their ceremonies and worship to their Gods. The Nature Spirits and devas who have acted as custodians of the landscape before man was created, now invites all light workers to revisit their sacred contract with Mother Earth and unite as one loyal army of devotees to stop mankind from falling into an abyss of inconsolable grief by forming an alliance of positive energy to embrace the Divine Feminine and combat this assault on the Earth.

The Divine Feminine together with Mother Mary and Mother Earth have all conspired in our favor to bring to us the reemergence of an ancient philosophy combined with the practical tools that will safeguard and nurture our beloved Earth as well as our higher self. As practiced many centuries ago by the Therapeutae Essenes in Egypt, we are invited to engage with the ancient therapy of washing and anointing the feet and hands of each other and resurrect the core values and principles by creating a new community of light workers who are more about embracing Love and light and by avoiding all mind sets that are fear based and this includes all religious groups that are controlling.

The Prophet Enoch or latterly known as the Archangel Metatron in another incarnation, received from God a set of spiritual principles that would change the mind sets of a people that has become enslaved to ego, fear and selfishness devoid of love. Today light workers who choose to work from a place of fear can now trace their lineage back to Saint Peter of the Nazarene Essenes. Light workers who work mainly from their heart can also trace their sacred lineage right back to the Master Jesus and the group known as the Johannine Community. This community was established by the Master Jesus and in the event of His death, Jesus instructed Saint John, the beloved disciple and Evangelist together with Mary Magdalene, the Divine Feminine to safeguard and nurture His spiritual teachings for our benefit.

The Nazarene Essenes that Saint Peter subscribed to was that of a strict Judaic framework that insisted on celibacy for initiates as well as denying the existence of the Divine Feminine. Whilst a committed Nazarene Essene, Saint Peter abandoned the use of the name Nazarene for his followers and replaced it with the name Christian. These teachings were influenced by fear, guilt and the need to perform ritual sacrifice of animals to appease their God. Saint Peter's legacy has left many followers disillusioned and frustrated in the wake of the Harmonic Convergence in 1998. As Jesus successor, Saint Peter, the first Pope of Rome, has given the Christian Church a doctrine not of Love, but one of fear and power control that has survived two thousand years. This negative mind set has not only stifled, shackled and destroyed lives but has attracted many who would prefer to embrace Jesus through their head centers. It is a doctrine that is ego centered devoid of selfless love.

Today we can celebrate the reemergence of the sacred writings of Jesus that were hidden and later discovered at Nag Hamandi in Egypt in 1947. Many of the original manuscripts by Saint John, Saint Thomas and Mary Magdalene about their relationship with the Master Jesus, have confirmed that the Johannine Community lived a totally different communal, non-celibate life to that of any other Nazarene sect. This community was a vibrant spiritual family whose sole purpose was more about embracing spirituality through the expression of the Daily Communions recited three times daily to the Father Mother God. The Tree of Life was their sacred tool that incorporated fourteen strands of energy, seven from the Heavenly Father Mother God to man and seven specific energies from Mother Earth to us. This vibrant community radiated the core teachings of the Master Jesus based on love and later went on to demonstrate how valued each person was as a brother and sister of the community through the anointing of each other's feet with the healing oils using Spikenard that Mary Magdalene used on the feet of her Master and beloved.

Today, Mother Mary and the Divine Feminine invite all light workers to embrace the healing arts of incorporating healing oils in their holistic therapies. Our acceptance of this invitation directly connects one with the Johannine Community of Saint John and Mary Magdalene of the Nazarene Essenes. This lineage dates back to Mount Carmel in Jerusalem where the early monks already practiced this ancient therapy known as Therapeutic Channeling. Over the past two thousand years, the religious orders of nursing monks have maintained a close affiliation with the ancient Principles and therapies of the Johannine Community of Mount Carmel. In the words of the Master Jesus, he said that 'whatever we do to a brother or sister, we do unto God.'

The Nazarene Essenes were renowned for their strict discipline and the use of positive affirmations that were the key to reprogramming the initiate's DNA. The training of new initiates took seven years and during that time they would have memorized the ancient symbols and teachings of the Essenes. Their popularity made them hunted men and women by the Greeks and Romans for their knowledge as well as their understanding of the Holistic therapies and ancient remedies alleviating suffering. They were respected and admired for their charitable works and sense of decency towards the poor and sick in their locality.

This ancient therapy of channeling the Divine Masculine (Jesus) and the Divine Feminine (Mary Magdalene) energies through 'Therapeutic Touch' using the healing oils, has left us a legacy that empowers clients today experience a soul revival unlike any other therapy. Light workers have been offered a gift from Source to reclaim their individual power and live lives that are detached from materialism whilst remaining in the world but not active participants to its mind games, subtle delusions and temptations. When a light worker experiences first hand the impact of these ancient healing energies there is a gradual change within their spirit's DNA empowering them to remain heart centered as key players in the reemergence of the ancient therapies practiced by Saint John, Mary Magdalene and those many men and women who have quietly lived as Nazarene Essenes of the Johannine Community to the present day.

The Christian Church together with all major religions today needs the support from the therapists who adhere to the ancient teachings of the Johannine Community of Nazarene Essenes. Society has apparently lost its way in their search for wealth.

In 1966, the Realms invited a light worker known as the Barefoot Angel Man to undergo the healing spiritual process of reconnection to the ancient teachings of the Master Jesus to leave his family and enter a monastic nursing order of monks. Sean was eventually known by his religious name of Brother Jude Thaddeus. In 1968, at his solemn profession of vows, Brother Jude received the ritual of the laying on of hands that had been practiced by members of the community since its inception in the fourteenth century. This ritual has a direct lineage to the Master Jesus and the Mount Carmel community of Saint John and Mary Magdalene.

In 2001, the Master Jesus guided Sean in prayer to reach out and offer practical support to several friends in need and soon the benefits were to change their lives. It was not long before word spread and friends and colleagues came asking for instruction into this ancient therapy that would create a shift of energy empowering them to heal deep unresolved inner core issues. Therapists from Ireland as well as in the United Kingdom came to embrace the teachings of Sananda Jesus, the Divine Feminine and the Angelic Realms.

From 2005, Sananda Jesus and Mary Magdalene have been instructing Sean to incorporate the ancient teachings of the Nazarene Essenes regarding ‘Spiritual Re-Programming of our Soul’s DNA’. We know from ancient writings found at Nag Hamandi in Egypt in 1947 that the Essenes used positive affirmations to reconnect with Mother Earth and with the Father Mother God. The Essenes were the founding Fathers of Psychotherapy that we know today. Sean has developed these Principles incorporating positive and forgiveness affirmations as part of the healing therapy handed down to us from Mary Magdalene through Saint John’s community on Mount Carmel. The anointing of feet with Spikenard empowers the heart center reclaim the mind, or head center to come back into subjection to the heart. The therapy is now recognized by therapists as a soul therapy offering the recipient clarity and vision to reclaim one’s divinity and move forward.

Working to the core values of these ancient teachings that have survived over 4000 years, Sean continues to support therapists and clients by offering a more personalized therapeutic therapy lasting from 1 hour to 24 hours on a residential and non residential basis. These individualized client interactions are more about embracing the Divine within and empowering the client face whatever is challenging them thus enabling them ‘Release, Reclaim and Reconnect’ with Source.

Long before NLP arrived, the Nazarene Essenes were already practicing with sacred tools that re-programmed not just the mind but actively imprinted the DNA of Source in our spirit. Sean believes that through these ancient sacred tools the Father Mother God with Mother Earth has implanted Love and Light into our very souls.

As a child of God, I endorse the teachings of the Nazarene Essenes who believed that when we were born, we came into this incarnation as a whole, perfect and complete child of God. Many therapists hold the belief that we have returned to earth to repay old Karma. This is an erroneous belief and one that confuses many light workers leaving them vulnerable and disempowered. Sean believes that we have all agreed to return into what can only be described as the most difficult of incarnations and that instead of repaying old debts, we agreed to come back with the wisdom and knowledge to enhance our spiritual ascension and lead many home to the Light The need to empower therapists recognize that this is the first step to their spiritual freedom as co creators of Source in partnership with Sananda Jesus, the Divine Feminine and the Four Spheres of Angelic Beings of Love.

Sean is a Spiritual Life Coach, Healer, Teacher & author of several books. He is committed to supporting and empowering clients and therapists experience inner peace, tranquillity and healing of Mind-Body-Spirit through one to one therapies or group work, at his home in the South Lakes.

Born in Glasgow, Sean was brought up in Dublin. He felt that throughout his life he was being guided and that his life was mapped out. At the age of 16 he entered a monastic community and became a qualified nursing monk. Although he left the community when he was 24, but now lives the life of a Tertiary Franciscan Monk. He continued nursing for a further 30 years until a major breakdown became his breakthrough in doing this work..

In 2002, Sean was guided by the Master Jesus and Mother Mary to establish the Sean Bradley Academy and reach out to carers and therapists empowering them not just be exceptional therapists in service to Sananda Jesus but to be a ‘People of Prayer’ and reconnect with their heart –their Christ/God centre each day. The spiritual lifeline offered to our therapists is part of the vision of the Tau Community of Saint Francis, a spiritual interfaith Family for all faiths and none, reaching out to all carers and therapists in need of support, education and training. It is our intention to set up Tau Healing Support Groups worldwide. We pride ourselves in caring for the carer with that same love that Jesus has demonstrated to us through the Johannine Community of the Nazarene Essenes.
